General Product Safety Regulation and applicability of HID products

On June 12, 2023, the EU released the General Product Safety Regulation, GPSR, which affects all consumer products sold in the European Union that before did not previously fall under a specific regulation.

HID products are considered Industrial or Commercial and fall under specific EU harmonized regulations that supersede the GPSR. Depending on the product, we are compliant with the RED Directive, LVD Directives, RoHS, and/or REACH. These standards contain specific testing and labeling requirements that exceed the requirements called out in GPSR.

As GPSR is aimed at the consumer market, this new regulation does not apply to HID products. For product specific standards, CE Declarations of Conformity can be found at <https://www.hidglobal.com/certifications>.

Sincerely,
